

Bell Ringer - Review

The Industrial Revolution replaced work by people with work by...?

Where did the Industrial Revolution start?

What was the FIRST major industry to grow from the Industrial Revolution?

What were some of the long term/ short term effects of the Industrial Revolution?

Bell Ringer - The story of the banker and the farmer

Were the intentions of the banker mean? (Was he trying to come off as being mean?)

Were the intentions of the farmer to be violent? (Did the farmer want to be aggressive?)

If neither of the two men were trying to be mean, how did their conflict get to be as complicated as it did?

Imperialism

Look at page 258 (Our World Today), Rivalry Between Nations. How did the Industrial Revolution create rivalries between the European countries?

European countries needed more resources to make things for the Industrial Revolution.

So they traveled to Africa and Asia for these items.

The European nations took over African and Asian territories to use them for their land/ resources.

Were the Africans/ Asians ok with this?
(Think back to our story of the banker and the farmer).

Imperialism - system of building foreign empires for military and trade advantages

Under imperialism, one country was taken over by another.

Activity: Split up the land amongst yourselves.

You and a group of other students will be given a piece of land (a piece of paper).

This land is very valuable - the more of it you own, the more money you get.

Split the land up amongst yourselves by drawing your territories on the paper. The student with the most territory will earn a special prize.

Did the activity cause you to argue?

Do you think when European countries were splitting up land that they argued in the process?

Using this information we just discussed... what do you think happened in Europe between the European countries?

Some European countries took sides with one another and formed alliances.

Alliance - political agreement between countries to support one another in disputes (arguments) with other countries.

 European Alliances on the Eve of World War I. Alliance systems divided Europe into two great blocs with few countries remaining neutral.

Check for Understanding

What parts of the world did most European countries imperialize?

Why were most countries in Europe forming alliances with each other?
